

DPRCG...

a network of leaders creating solutions to risk that support the evolution of the design profession

What does DPRCG do?

- Provides a unique North American network to A/E firms who demonstrate a commitment to risk management
- Creates a platform for peers to share their experiences through case studies, to collaborate on emerging trends, and to advance best practices among members
- Partners forward-thinking firms and AXA XL on research/development to control risk through insurance solutions, education and multifaceted materials
- Sets in motion the exchange of ideas, knowledge and common experiences from which members build invaluable relationships for future problem solving, teaming and business referrals
- Places a priority on the contributions of A/E practitioners to drive the agenda of the organization and its programs
- Provides direct support to A/E executives responsible for effective risk management and equips them with tools and educational materials to help instill a risk control culture throughout their firms' staff
- Transforms a traditional "cost of doing business" relationship with an insurance company into a strategic partnership for overall improvement and cost savings

What value does DPRCG bring?

- A heightened awareness about risk and the elements of practice and relationships that give rise to risk
- An environment of trust that invites the sharing of errors and problems to help others avoid pitfalls
- A networking opportunity among high-quality peers prescreened by underwriters and agents/brokers
- A unique collaboration of allies – policyholders and AXA XL – for solutions that support the evolution of the design profession
- A dialogue on industry risk including but not limited to professional liability
- A collective energy and wholistic thinking about emerging trends

How is DPRCG different?

In a world marginalized by a commodity mind set, note what sets DPRCG apart and attracts the active participation of its members.

- Hosts an annual conference attended by 95% of members, developed by A/E practitioners, focused on best practices and risk management, recognized as a leading industry event for 25+ years – DPRCG's Convocation
- Tackles cutting-edge topics in publications/programs pushing the limits of traditional risk and aiding the evolution of the design industry
- Encourages members to share information and experiences for the greater good of the organization and peer members
- Fosters members' progress to improve their business practices, culture, client/project team relationships and outcomes
- Benefits from the resources of its strategic partnership with AXA XL including claim trends, education and R&D
